HR TRENDS
2014

As 2014 gets underway, companies are primed for a big year of new innovations that should improve productivity and accomplish more with less. Even though technology will be a driving force, finding skilled people will be the difference into the New Year.

1 MORE COACHING & EMPLOYEE DEVELOPMENT The correlation between developing employees and creating a best place to work is more obvious than ever. Companies who want to be seen as an "employer of choice" will invest time and money in career development programs.	THE 100 BEST COMPANIES OFFER NEARLY DOUBLE THE HOURS OF ON-THE-JOB TRAINING TO EMPLOYEES AS COMPANIES NOT ON THE LIST — China Gorman, CEO of Great Place to Work
