

5 Tips

For a Successful Job Search

>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>

The current business world is populated with two kinds of executives and managers: the out of work and those who are concerned that they soon will be. Whether a job search is in your present or prospective future, here are five tips to help you make it a successful one.

Check Out Your Online Profile

Google yourself regularly. 70% of executive recruiters say that finding positive information online improves a candidate's job prospects. Articles on the web that report on you and your successes can therefore elevate you to the top of the consideration list.

