

R0E for casual employees

written by Conner Lantz | July 31, 2019

When an R0E is issued for casual employees because there is no work performed or earnings for 30 days, is this considered a break of the employment contract? Is it then required to provide a new employment contract or can they be reinstated at a later date with the same contract?