Increasing Participation and Completion of Online Training

Date: February 15th, 2017
Register: Click here
Speaker: Natae Bugg, MS, CSP, Sr. Manager Training & Solutions at SafetyNow

A key factor in a successful safety program is employee training. Effective training not only checks the compliance boxes but reduces injury and incidents rates by raising awareness of hazards and safe work practices.

How can you boost your training completion rates, maximize your training efforts and ensure your safety message is getting to the greatest number of employees?

This webinar, the third in our four-part series of Managing Your Safety Program in the Cloud, will try to answer those questions as we explore ways to increase training participation and completion.

Join our speaker Natae Bugg as she covers the following topics:

- It's Human Nature
- Small Wins
- Keep it Short and Simple
- Bees and Carrots

Our final webinar in the series will look at training retention and creating training that sticks.

As well, there will be a Q&A period at the end.

This is the third webinar in a four-part series that highlights training obstacles organizations commonly face, and how to deal with them.

About Our Speaker:

Natae Bugg is a Certified Safety Professional with almost 17 years of experience in the field of safety and health. She has worked as a safety and training manager in various fields, including construction, telecommunications and biotechnology. She was part of a team that helped launch a company wide online safety training initiative to 26,000 employees as part of her tenure with T-Mobile. She currently works at SafetyNow overseeing the development of training, compliance and reinforcement materials.