

Job Advertisement Non-Discrimination Guidelines & Policy (Québec Version)

Introduction: How to Use This Tool

Human rights laws ban employers from posting job ads that express a limitation, specification or preference based on gender, age, race, religion and other protected grounds. Unfortunately, complying with these rules is trickier than it seems and it's easy to indicate forbidden preferences without meaning to do so. That's why you should implement a written policy to prevent inadvertent discrimination and ensure that your ads do justice to your organization's commitment to equal opportunity. Here's a model based on the Québec Charter.
