The vaccine roll-out in Canada has been significantly slower than in the US, delaying our recovery by nearly 2 quarters in comparison. As an employer, you have a duty to protect the health and safety of all employees; however, you have an obligation under human rights to respect personal health choices. How do you balance these two obligations the right way in a post-pandemic world? How does this influence your ability to open, run, and manage your business? How does this impact the employment relationship or your obligations to clients/customers? You need to protect yourself from future liability risks on multiple fronts, and you need to have a policy that allows your business to operate safely. Get the answers you need to all of these questions and key resources/solutions you can implement right away.

The series will be presented in 3-parts, over 3 months. Each part is presented in a succinct 1-1.5 hour webinar that is available in both a live and on-demand format. Each part also includes downloadable resources and key take-aways. There is a Q/A period in the live webinar format and an expert question submission for on-demand participants.

Part 1. Developing a COVID-19 Vaccine Policy

Part 2. COVID-19 Labour Relations and Safety Litigation

Part 3. 5 HR strategies for a Successful Post-COVID-19 Recovery
