

Mental Health in the Canadian Workplace Infographic

At some point in our lives, all Canadians are likely to be affected by a mental illness, whether it's through a family member, a friend, a colleague, or through personal experience. And many people face these mental health issues during their working years. Promoting mental well-being at work makes good business sense.
(Source: CCOHS)

Click on the image below:

