

Nova Scotia OHS Officers carried out an Ontario-style “blitz” campaign

Nova Scotia OHS officers carried out an Ontario-style “blitz” campaign targeting landscaping job sites across the province at the end of July. Highlights:

- 37 unannounced inspections conducted
- 88 orders issued for infractions
- Common violations included lack of first-aid training and use of personal protective equipment
- 51 warnings issued for lack of proper first aid kits and similar concerns.
