The Most Important Compensation Plan a Company Can Have?

The compensation plan a company can have is going to be different for each organization. “Which pay program or strategy should get most attention right now?” The problem is solved by learning to prioritize the compensation development effort. This article will identify how that can be done most effectively and legitimately