The Work From Home Cheat Sheet

The health crisis is real. There are thousands of people losing their jobs and businesses, with thousands more to come.

With kids home from school, a perplexing economy, and a world in crisis, it’s become impossible to function as normal, but I’m hopeful.

If you’re fortunate enough where business is doing okay, it’s time to adapt to change and plan for the future.

One of those changes, whether you like it or not, is remote.
