What is Mental Illness

Episodes of mental illness are prevalent within the Canadian workplace.

With approximately 44% of the workforce affected by mental illness at some point in their lives and 67% of long term disability claims being related to mental illness, learning how to address mental illness concerns at your workplace benefits everyone.

Download this Special Report and learn how to address the core training gaps managers say exist in relation to mental illness and the workplace.