

Workplace Deal Breakers Revealed

What aspects of work are most likely to get on employees' nerves?

More importantly, at what point does it go beyond annoying and into “deal-breaker” territory? If your gut reaction is “it’s all about compensation,” a recent survey suggests that instinct is wrong. In truth, issues related to advancement and work-life balance elicit the highest emotional response from U.S. employees.