Workplace Law

Did you know that you don’t need a reason to terminate an employee?

Did you know that withholding a positive letter of reference can lead to additional damages awarded by the courts to the employee you have terminated?

Reducing your company’s liability to costly legal issues through a thorough understanding and compliance with the basics of workplace law is a major contributor to any company’s bottom line.